

Bashir Jiwani, PhD

Dr. Bashir Jiwani is Ethicist and Director, Fraser Health Ethics Services where his role involves clinical ethics consultation, ethics-based organizational policy analysis, ethics infrastructure development and support, and ongoing ethics education and programming. Bashir is also member of the Executive for the Canadian Bioethics Society.

Bashir has done over 450 workshops and presentations across the country and internationally on issues in ethics and health ethics both for academic audiences and to health care administrators, providers, patients and the lay public.

Previously, Bashir has served as Ethicist and Leader of the Ethics Network for Providence Health Care and Northern Alberta Coordinator for the Provincial Health Ethics Network and Assistant Adjunct Professor with the John Dossetor Health Ethics Centre at the University of Alberta. He has worked with a number of committees and special task forces including the Joint Oncology Drug Review Ethics Group and the College of Physicians and Surgeons of BC's Ethical Standards and Conduct Review Committee.

Bashir's publications include:

- Exploring Disparities Between Global HIV/AIDS Funding and Recent Tsunami Relief Efforts.
- Ethical and Scientific Issues Surrounding Solid Organ Transplantation in HIV Patients
- A Mandate for Regional Health Ethics Resources,
Ethics and Health Resource Allocation: A Primer for Policy Makers
- An Introduction to Health Ethics Committees: a Professional Guide for the Development of Ethics Resources

Bashir's academic background is in philosophy and public health. He has a Doctorate from the University of Alberta's Public Health Sciences department and a Master's degree in Applied Ethics, specializing in Bioethics, from UBC. His research interests include ethics and public health policy, health care resource allocation, the work of ethics resources in both clinical and organizational ethics, ethical decision-making, ethics in Islam, bioethics in a multicultural context, and issues in ethics and identity.