Things you need to know

What is the test preparation?

Use two 'fleet' enemas (one right after the other) in the morning on the day of your test. Your pharmacist can help you find an enema brand. Follow the instructions on the bottle.

Before your test:

★ Please let us know if you are allergic to latex before this test. ★

We ask you to change into a hospital gown and take off your underwear. Please keep your clothing and personal things with you.

You may have a short wait before we can take you into the exam room.

What happens during the test?

- We ask you to lie on your left side.
- The doctor gently checks your rectum by putting a finger in your anus.
- During the test, the doctor gently inserts an ultrasound probe (special camera) into your rectum (rek-tum). The ultrasound probe looks like a small, thin tube.
- The doctor then moves the probe to take some ultrasound pictures of your rectum.
- The test lasts about five minutes and then the doctor takes out the ultrasound probe.
- You can use one of our washrooms if you need to clean up.
- You can then put on your clothes and go home.
